Pahokee residents question appraisals

PAHOKEE — Between 15 and 20 Pahokee residents turned out for a millage hearing in the city council chambers at city hall Tuesday night, September 14, in Pahokee, but the citizens directed most of their questions to the representatives of the county appraisers office who were present, and not the city officials.

County Property Appraiser Rebecca Walker told the group that the drastic increases many residents experienced the past two years in their property taxes and appraisals should level off next year because most county property is now appraised as close to 100 percent valuation as possible.

She said she had to comply with state laws and statutes, including the Truth In Millage Amendment which requires as near a 100 percent appraisal of property as possible.

Last year, the county reappraised buildings and homes in an effort to comply with the amendment, and this year it reappraised the land to complete the process.

"We feel like the roll is equitable now," Walker said.

Voicing a concern of many local residents, one Pahokee citizen asked whether Glades property was appraised at cost values.

"Our property is not worth what it is over there," he said.

John Beupre, a representative from the appraiser's office, said the county uses land values determined through real estate transactions in the Belle Glade, South Bay and Pahokee area to assess local property.

"We realized the real estate market was virtually dead this year," said Walker.

Beupre said the property on the coast is valued between $15,000 and $18,000 for a single dwelling plot, and that a comparable lot in the Glades is assessed usually between $6,000 and $7,500.

This year's public hearing was calm in contrast to last year's session when a room full of people filled the council chambers, many of them wanting to find out why their property assessments were increased so dramatically.

Walker told the Tuesday night crowd that she must follow state guidelines and that the citizens who voted for the TRIM amendment have only themselves to blame for increased assessments.

Most people don't realize that the TRIM amendment, which exempted property taxes on assessments up to $25,000, also required 100 percent evaluation, she said.

Prior to the adoption of the TRIM amendment, the county property appraised at about 60 percent, she said.

She said tax payers should urge the state delegation to adopt a change to the amendment, and they should pressure taxing agencies, such as cities and counties, to roll back millage rates.

One city resident said she felt the Pahokee City Council was acting responsibly.

THE PAHOKEE CITY COUNCIL held its first budget hearing Tuesday, September 14. From left, George Tillis, Ronnie Graydon, Ada Bush, Chairman Jon Mock and William McKinstry. Also in attendance was County Property Appraiser Rebecca Walker.

Pahokee Chamber discusses March festival, reorganizes

PAHOKEE — The Pahokee Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors met for the first time since it closed its doors earlier this summer and discussed the city's birthday celebration.

The 1983 celebration, tentatively titled "Catfish Festival," was scheduled for March 18 through March 20.

The directors discussed the need for different activities and a larger facility to hold the chamber banquet at. Last year the banquet was held at the Prince Theater.

Among the suggested activities were a softball tournament and games.

President George Tillis said he thought the board should decide upon a name before it did too much planning so the festival could be built around its theme.

The board also decided to send letters to all the directors informing them that the chamber may be more active this year and will need more support from the directors and members. Directors who feel they cannot be active will be asked to step down from the board.

A clause in the chamber's constitution permits the board to remove any director who misses three consecutive meetings.

BELLE GLADE — The obligations of the local cable television franchise will be examined by the city, but customers with complaints regarding service should try to contact the cable company before approaching the city.

That was the word at the city commission meeting Monday night, September 14, when the commissioners once again discussed the service offered by the local company, Jones Intercable.

Mayor Thomas L. Altman said he had met with representatives from the company to discuss the complaints he had received regarding service.

"The biggest problem I saw was the inability of customers to reach the company with a problem," said Altman. "Most customers will understand problems of a mechanical or technical nature if they are explained. But they can't be explained if nobody is there to talk to them."

He said the company representatives had informed him that the company is examining methods to help the customers reach the company in case of problems.

"I called them Saturday and I called them Sunday," said Commissioner William Gresar. "I was able to get someone this time."

Altman had mentioned at an earlier meeting that many customers wouldn't receive an answer when they called with a service problem on the weekend.

He also said one of the biggest problems concerning the cable franchise was emergency service.

City Attorney John Baker said the franchise obligates the company to provide emergency service from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. everyday of the year. Altman asked Baker and City Manager Rolfe Wagner to meet with the company representatives to discuss those requirements.

"I think that is the biggest single problem and I'd like for us to have some more conversations with them on that," said Altman.

In the meantime, Altman said he thought the customers with problems should go to the company before they come to the city.

"Then, if they don't get satisfaction, come to the city," he said.

DOT opens resurfacing bids for SR 80 near South Bay

TALLAHASSEE — Florida Department of Transportation officials opened sealed bids Wednesday, August 25, for resurfacing a 6.4 mile section of SR 80 from the Miami Canal to the intersection of 80 and SR 25 in South Bay.

The apparent low bidder is Sloan Construction from Greenville, South Carolina at $731,151.59.

The resurfacing work requires that asphalt be recycled resulting in a 30 to 50 percent energy savings as compared to conventional methods.

Existing pavement, to a depth of three inches, will be removed by a rotary drum milling machine and transported to a nearby asphalt plant for processing. The new recycled asphalt mix then will be hauled back to the construction site where a conventional paving machine will be used to place it on the road.

An estimated 65 percent of the existing pavement will be utilized. Work should be completed in 300 days.

The contract will be awarded within 45 days. The DOT district office has 30 days to issue a work order after the contract is executed.

Pedestrian killed Tuesday

BELLE GLADE — A Jacksonville man lived in the Glades for 7 years died when he was struck by an automobile while attempting to cross state road 715 Tuesday morning. According to Belle Glade Police Detective Normand Hevey, the 59 year old male was crossing to the west side of 715 near 715

Trailer Park at about 5:30 when he was struck by an automobile driven by Lee Andrew Crowell, 333 SW Avenue E number 102. The victim was declared dead at the scene and no charges were filed against Crowell, said Hevey. Hevey was assisted in the investigation by Ed Britt and Billy Murray.

Land sale extension granted

PAHOKEE — The Palm Beach County Community Development has until October 15 to close on the Everglades Labor Camp or the Pahokee Housing Authority will advertise for bids on the plot of land again.

The authority's board of directors voted to grant the extension till October 15, because the county requested the extra time to get the funds from the 1982-1983 budget.

The Community Development Department's lawyer had asked the authority to drop the request for 14 percent interest, but that request was declined.

Later in the meeting, a telephone call from the department's director established that the lawyer had made that request without the department's knowledge.

Millage

"I think they've done a good job," she said. "They had enough money left over to lower our tax another mill."

The city council tentatively decided to lower the millage rate from 5.724 to 4.724 at a workshop meeting Thursday, September 9.

The rollback rate was 5.734. At that rate, the city was eligible for its share of the new one percent state sales tax.

Walker said the local taxing agencies were forced to lower their millage rates to obtain the sales tax dollars this year, but next year, that guideline won't exist.

Pressure must be put on the taxing agencies to keep the tax rates down, because her office is mandated by state law to appraise as close to 100 percent as possible, she said. Most property is appraised at between 85 and 90 percent because of closing costs, she added.

The appraisers office attempts to make the tax rates fair and equal as possible, she said.

"We don't live under the same equal rules," said Councilman William E. McKinstry. "Did you ever get 96 on the way out here tonight? We don't get the same benefits for the tax dollars out here."

"I can't fix your roads, but I can make sure you don't pay more than your fair share," said Walker.

In other business, the council decided to authorize City Engineer Jim Sloane to seek permission to use the full amount of the state grant for repairs to the harbor break water on the pier's pilings.

The grant was earmarked for use on the pilings, the boat ramps and slips.

Because the bids for the project were too high, the city decided to ask the state for permission to use all the funds on the pilings while it seeks other funds for the rest of the project.

"If you get new pilings and you have a hurricane, you're still gonna have problems down there," said Sloane. "New pilings won't make it hurricane proof."

The truth about sugar

By DALTON YANCEY
Vice President and General Manager
Florida Sugar Cane League

For months the American consumer has been sold as a pawn in a movement by big sugar refiners and large industrial users in creating an unfair scenario that is not only damaging to the public, but also simply not true. It's time the facts be presented.

In 1961, the Farm Bill was passed with an anti-dumping measure for the American sugar farmer by offering a loan level of 17 cents a pound for his sugar. With import duties and fees, the new program was expected to keep sugar prices at about 20 cents a pound. However, a world sugar glut since that time forced President Reagan to set import quotas to avoid the possibility of stockpiling sugar. As a result, Senators Paul Tsongas, Democrat of Massachusetts, and Dan Quayle, Republican of Indiana, have proposed legislation which would reduce the loan level from 17 cents to 14 cents a pound.

To understand the need for a domestic sugar policy, a little must be known about the world sugar market from which the United States annually buys about 46 percent of the sugar Americans consume.

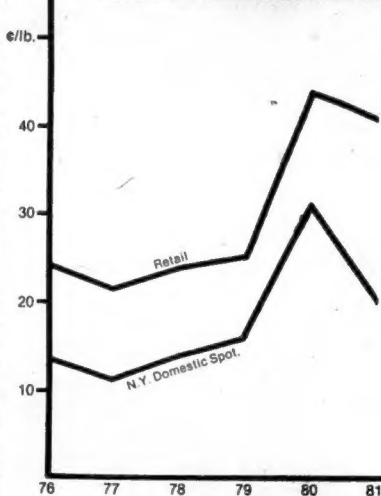

Sugar is grown in about 100 countries, all of which export their surpluses. About 80 percent of the world sugar supply is consumed in the country of origin. Fifteen of the remaining 20 percent is traded under preferential treaties and the leftover five percent is dumped into the world market.

This so-called "free" market is simply homeless sugar which major sugar producing countries are prepared to sell at any price which will move the product. Additionally, most of these countries have their own sugar import controls and domestic programs which make it particularly easy to profitably dump their excesses on the market from which the United States must purchase. If the United States was totally dependent on these foreign sources for all its sugar needs, the costs to Americans would be several hundred percent higher as testified by the U.S. Department of Agriculture before the Ways and Means Committee of the U.S. House of Representatives.

Throughout the battle for sugar provisions in the Farm Bill, opponents repeatedly used the guise of protecting the consumer from high sugar prices.

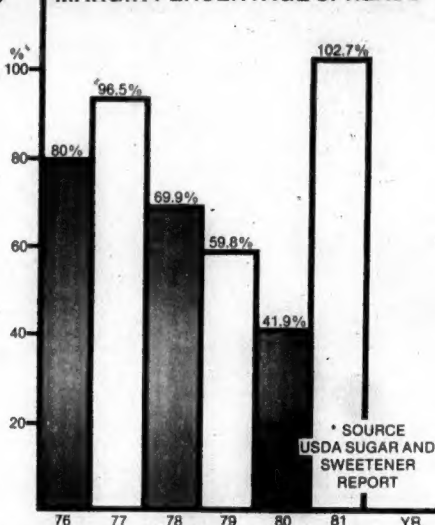

This familiar cry can be heard once again as the battle mounts with the recently proposed Senate amendment. Just who is behind this effort to protect consumers? The big sugar refiners and large industrial users, the middlemen between

DOMESTIC RAW SUGAR PRICES AND REFINED SUGAR PRICES

In 1980, as raw prices began to drop, middlemen margins (the difference between the retail price and the N.Y. domestic spot price) increased. Note that in 1980, the margin between the N.Y. domestic spot price and retail prices was 41.9 percent. In 1981 as raw prices fell, the margin more than doubled to almost 103 percent.

American sugar farmers and the consumer. And for what purpose? The real motive is profits. These middlemen use the argument of comparing the difference between world price and the domestic price and say this represents the program's cost to consumers. They conveniently overlook the cost of shipping, handling and marketing. More importantly, they frequently blame sugar prices for increases in the price of soft drinks, baked goods, ice cream, etc. However, when sugar prices fall, do prices for their products fall? Never. [see chart]. The most recent figures for the first six months of 1982, according to the USDA, show an 81 percent spread between the average New York spot price of 18.60 cents a pound and the retail price of 33.72 cents a pound.

Once the American consumer has become accustomed to paying higher retail prices, savings are seldom passed on to them if sugar prices retreat. This would mean less profit for the middlemen. For example, raw sugar prices in the United States fell 35 percent from 1980 to 1981, but the wholesale price of soft drinks increased 9.4

percent during the same period. Another point to note is the rise in prices of non-sugar-containing soft drinks. Why does a diet drink cost the same as a sugar containing product when sugar supposedly is the main reason for increased prices?

The American consumer is unknowingly being used to win a battle which would benefit a few - the middlemen. It's time to stop this ridiculous argument in the self-serving name of consumerism.

Letters Lawyer issues rebuttal

Dear Editor:

I have had the opportunity to read your recent news story and editorial concerning the recommendations of the Palm Beach Community Relations Board and I feel that your readers would be interested in having all of the facts before they pass judgement on this critical problem.

Mayor Altman issued a response to the recommendations that seemed to imply that the City of Belle Glade had already taken the necessary steps to correct the problems found by the Board. However, a careful review of the facts indicates that Mayor Altman did not reveal all. He indicated that the City had been rewriting the building code so that it could be more easily enforced and that the present Code is difficult to enforce.

The City Code has had a provision for the inspection of dangerous buildings since 1953. This provision, (Sec. 7-110), requires that the City building inspector inspect all buildings annually to determine whether they are dangerous buildings within the meaning of the Code and to inspect semi-annually all rooming houses to determine whether they are dangerous buildings. The standards for a building is dangerous are set out in the Code and are fairly simple to apply. (see, Sec. 7-704).

Once the building is inspected and it is determined that it is dangerous, then the City Commission or the Code enforcement board can proceed to force the owner to correct the problems.

All it requires for this provision of the Code to be enforced and dangerous buildings to be corrected is the will of the City. However, the City has repeatedly maintained that it does not have a duty to inspect buildings in the City. It certainly seems that Mayor Altman could use some of his power as Mayor to get the city to proceed under its own Charter. I am glad that the City recognizes that there is a need for a new building code, but this doesn't seem to be an adequate excuse for the City's refusal to enforce its present code.

Mayor Altman's rather revealing statement that the State should have responsibility to enforce the City's Code because it is "further removed from the political process" raises serious questions. Is the reason for the City and the Mayor's inactivity because of the fear that strong enforcement of the Code would step on some political toes? If this is the case, maybe Mayor Altman should resign his position since he seems to be motivated not by the interests of the residents, but by what is politically expedient.

Mayor Altman's statements concerning the annexation of Okeechobee are also largely incorrect. The history of the annexation question is, of course, too long and complex to detail in this letter. However, Fla. Statutes 171.031 (1) prohibits a municipality from presently annexing corridors for the purpose of reaching parcels of land to be annexed. It does not prevent the annexation of land already contiguous to previously annexed corridors. That is the situation with Okeechobee. The corridor created by the City's annexation of the portion of State Road 80 lying next to Okeechobee was accomplished many years ago and has been a part of the City for many years. Therefore, there would be no annexation of a corridor in violation of the State Law.

The City already supplies water and sewer service to the residents of Okeechobee, as it also does to Ocochee which was annexed by the City. The City also appoints the members of the Housing Authority Board and the annexation of [Continued on Page 5]

Liberals on the other hand believe that government should take an active role in helping the underprivileged. Unless government steps in, the underdog will always be the underdog. There is something to be said for each point of view and just helps to prove, in case there was any doubt in your mind, that humans are not perfect.

In all truth, there is probably no such thing as thoroughly liberal or a thoroughly conservative person. A person can be liberal on civil rights matters, but be a fiscal and religious conservative.

Finding firm territory to argue over can be difficult, but it does make for interesting conversation.

2 celebrations wrapped in 1

Somewhat 1 let two nationwide observances get past last week (time flies even when you're not having fun) — one was Labor Day and the other was Grandparents Day.

I wouldn't bother to bring up either subject at this late date but a whole lot of grandpas or those among their peer group got a combined Labor Day-Grandparents Day present last Thursday that could be easily overlooked.

When Congress vetoed the President's budgetary cutbacks, senior citizens under the Title V program got a new lease on their community service jobs. Two weeks ago these folk had been told that most of them would be out of work Sept. 30 but the Title V funds were being lost by cutbacks in the federal budget.

The pay for jobs they'd be losing wouldn't make many a young man's car payment or buy a week's groceries for a family of five. The jobs pay $3.35 an hour for a maximum of four hours a day. That's a total of $13.40 a week.

The loss of $57 a week hopefully didn't mean anybody would be going over the hill to the porch, but it sure does take out a small social security check. And Title V puts some senior citizens into jobs that would otherwise go undone. Among the community service jobs they do are to help at the congregate meals sites by assisting with dishes up the home delivered meals and then with delivering them. They give the van drivers a hand with getting the elderly in to town for groceries, going to the doctor's, the drug store, or wherever their errands take them. They teach arts and crafts and lead the games and singing at the senior centers. And they're employed by some other nonprofit organizations that need a few hours help a day, such as hospitals, schools, and Chambers of Commerce. All in all it was a good week. Some grandpas, or should we just say grand people, got a little labor (purposeful activity) put back in their lives and it was a fitting way to celebrate both occasions.

Otherwise, there are probably no two observances that get shorter shift than Labor Day and Grandparents Day.

If you have a job, Labor Day is a day off, a three-day holiday. Period. If you don't have a job, what's to celebrate? And much the same can be said for Grandparents Day. If the grandchildren keep in touch the rest of the year, what's with Grandparents Day? And if they don't care the rest of the year, one day out of 365 can't count for much. Unless we can get it moved to the Friday before Labor Day and get a four-day weekend.

Everglades History Taken from our back issues

20 YEARS AGO
THE BELLE GLADE HERALD
SEPTEMBER 26, 1962

Incumbent City Commissioner Palmer January won re-election in a close runoff contest with political newcomer Bill J. Bailey.

January won by a margin of 265 to 253 votes in the runoff election.

The Bailey-January showdown was set up by the elimination of Ernie Matthews, who came in third in a three-man race.

Only 498 of the registered, 1,199 voters cast their ballots in the runoff, compared to 506 in the general election a week earlier. There was an estimated 3500 voters who could have registered.

But were confused, according to the story, being registered in the county and thinking this qualified them for the city election.

Political interest was also being raised in South Bay, where Franklin Kelly was running unopposed for another term.

In Group One, former commissioner J.C. Bowen was challenging incumbent Effie Allen.

In Group Two, Henry Elfers and A.O. Walker, both former members of the commission, were opposing each other.

President of the State Senate and Director of the Conservation Board Randolph Hodges flew into the Glades for an inspection of natural resources with State Rep. Emmett Roberts.

Meeting with Hodges were members of the city commission and representatives of the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce.

Hodges was said to be particularly interested in the cross state barge facility through Lake Okeechobee, and the lack of competitive interest here and the proposed canal in North Florida.

Roberts, Chamber President Bob Lee, Port Committee Chairman Charles Goodlett and others pointed out the possibilities of service of the canal to sugar interests.

30 YEARS AGO
THE BELLE GLADE HERALD
SEPTEMBER 19, 1952

Belle Glade residents were being urged to, "Join a flying saucer spotter group, take your rifle, take your Kodak or your binoculars (and) let's catch one and pen it up in Belle Glade."

The recruiting was being done in the aftermath of the sighting of a, "mysterious flying object hovering about 20 feet over the tops of the trees, frightened milk cows at the Everglades Experiment Station so badly on Sunday morning that they stampeded twice, and when milked by Fred Brown, dairyman, the 13 cows yielded only nine gallons of milk instead of their usual 16."

Brown told two Air Force officers and a Herald reporter he'd just gone to the barn to milk the cows Sunday morning when he heard a low humming overhead and looked up to see, "a big round thing flying 30 or 30 feet over the tops of the trees."

He said it was about 30 feet in diameter and was traveling west about 20 to 30 miles an hour.

"The noise it made and the smell it gave off, Brown said, "scared the animals into a stampede. There were several horses in the barn and they and the cows lit out, running across the field."

Brown said no one else at the station was awake to see the object, "but there were two cars on the Palm Beach Road and they must have seen it because they nearly wrecked, stopping."

Brown said he'd barely gotten the crowd rounded up and calmed down again when the object returned from the south, flying faster and higher this time, and the cattle stampeded again.

Brown said that both times the object passed overhead, it gave off a humming sound and a sharp, acid smell similar to ammonia.

He said it had an elliptical shape in cross section, was about eight feet deep and red and amber lights were alternately spaced a foot apart around the bottom rim.

The Air Force officers refused to speculate on Brown's story.

The Pahokee Rotary Club met with West Palm Beach Rotarians and, to the surprise of the Palm Beachers, took control of the meeting after the first two minutes.

Paul Rardin, president of the local club, presided, presenting seven members of the Pahokee club to make short talks on agriculture in the Glades.

Among the speakers were O.B. McClure, W.D. Caudill, Rev. C.A. Moberg, Sam Chastain, D.P. Jernigan, John A. Dulany and P.P. deMoya.

The Shippers Ice Company plant in Lauderdale County, Miss., for a reported $24,500.

The plant was established three years earlier by R.C. Guise, also of Mississippi and had been taken over a year before the sale by L.L. Stuckey. Glades residents were being asked, along with other Americans, to increase their use of V-Mail to maintain contact with relatives in the service.

The problem was that there was only so much mail that could be transported to troops in the field overseas and more V-Mail, which was reduced to film, could be sent by letters.

V-Mail forms were available free of charge in all Post Offices during the war.

Gov. Doyle E. Carlton gave permission for the use of convicts at the State Prison Farm in the reclamation of Pelican Bay bottom land.

The governor kept his head out the window the entire time during a tour of the area, according to one person who was in the car.

Carlton said more progress was being made in the Lake Okeechobee area than anywhere else in the state.

Arrangements were made to exchange a section of state-owned land for a section planted in sugar cane.

Plans were being made to build a syrup mill, a cannery and a hospital at the farm but the construction would have to await a water supply.

A fish story non-paral on the front page of the Everglades News apparently was meant to show the strength of moonshine being distilled in the Glades.

According to the story, a man who'd been unable to do more than drown worms learned the proper method from a small boy, who put another worm on the fisherman's hook, then dipped it into a jug of "shine."

"With the liquor-laden worm on the hook, the line was cast into the water," according to the story.

"Presently there was a great commotion and a tug on the line and a big bass was seen churning in the water."

"When the line was reeled in, it was found that neither the worm or the hook was in the mouth of the bass. Made ferocious by the Glades' shine the worm had attacked the bass and almost the bass had fought valiantly to get away, the worm ad adhered to it so firmly that the fisherman had to use his knife to cut the worm in two and release the bass."

"At least that's what the fish editor of the Cleveiston News says."

Okeechobee would allow the residents a voice in the government that controls the membership of the board. Maybe, Mayor Altman is more fearful of the increase in black voters than he is concerned with the tax base of the City.

Mayor Altman also cites the Sugar Subdivision project as an example of the City's concern for the housing needs of the residents of Belle Glade. However, this project was for the development of single family homes and the cost of the lot and the home is primarily limited to middle-class families. According to the information that the City supplied to HUD and according to the City's own Comprehensive Land Use Plan, the critical need for new housing is in the area of multi-family rental housing. There is a 4 to 1 ratio of renters to homeowners in the City and most of the renters do not have the income or the borrowing ability to take advantage of Sugar Subdivision. The City should be taking an active role in the development of more decent housing for renters. What has Mayor

Altman done to accomplish this while he has been on the City Commission? I certainly hope that in the future, you will attempt to get all of the facts before you publish editorials condemning the Human Relations Board. It would certainly improve your credibility in the community.

Gators lose opener to Pinecrest 28-0

Capitalizing on numerous turnovers, the Pinecrest Panthers on Friday defeated the Glades Day Gators 28-0 in Belle Glade.

Turnovers killed the host team. The Gators lost five fumbles and had two passes picked off during the game.

Pinecrest won the toss and received the kickoff, but was stopped in four downs by the Gator defense. Glades Day fumbled away its first possession on the second play from scrimmage. Pinecrest defensive back Brett O'Brien picked the ball up and ran it in from the 20 yard line. The Panthers missed the point after and led 6-0.

Glades Day fumbled on the next set of downs, but recovered. However, unable to get the first down, the Gators were forced to punt.

Pinecrest fumbled on the first play from scrimmage and defensive tackle Lamar Landing recovered for Glades Day. Glades Day drove down to the Pinecrest 10 yard line, but could advance no further and turned the ball over on downs.

The Glades Day defense forced Pinecrest to punt, but a personal foul penalty on the punt return gave Pinecrest first and ten at its own 30 yard line.

The next play, Glades Day defensive back Mike Schlechter intercepted a Pinecrest pass and the Gators had the ball on their own 42 yard line. The Panther defense stopped the Gators' running attack and the Gators were forced to turn the ball over to the Panthers.

Pinecrest was unable to move the ball and was forced to punt to Glades Day. Three plays later Glades Day was forced to punt from its own 36 yard line.

Pinecrest took over on its own 36 yard line and two consecutive completed passes took the Panthers down to the Gators' 12 yard line. With 1:11 remaining in the first half, Pinecrest kicked a 15-yard field goal to go ahead 9-0.

In the second half, Glades Day fumbled the opening kickoff and Pinecrest recovered on its own 35-yard line. The Panthers went for first down with fourth and six at the 30 yard line, but the Glades Day defense stopped the Panthers and the Gators took over.

The Gators made a first down at the 22 yard line, then fumbled on the 35 and Pinecrest recovered. Pinecrest picked up a first down on a quarterback sneak and then drove down to the Raiders hold first half lead to win 30-12

BELLE GLADE -- Some things never change. Last year, the Glades Central Raiders were pretty much a first-half team.

They scored big in the first and second quarters and had trouble holding the opposition in the third and fourth.

They won their district berth in the first half of the season and lost almost every game in the second half of the season, including their only playoff game against Suncoast.

When the Raiders and the Fort Pierce Central Cobras took the field here Friday, September 10, it looked like someone forgot to tell the Cobras what direction they had to move the ball in the first half. In the first 24 minutes, the Cobra offense managed to move the ball over the 50 yard line twice.

The Raider defense pushed the Cobras towards the Glades Central end zone in that time with an agility that could make a spectator wonder whether the Raiders even needed an offense.

The Raiders scored their first TD less than two minutes into the first quarter. At the buzzer ending the first half, they were up 30-0.

But when the teams took the field in the second half, the old patterns proved the norm. It was the Cobras who moved the ball and the Raiders who had trouble containing their opponents.

The Raiders allowed the Cobras six points and seemed to be on the verge of giving up when their defense stopped the Cobra assault inside the forty yard line.

The stand helped boost the Raiders who went on to hold the Fort Pierce team to just one more TD, winning their first game of the season 30-12.

The Cobras received the opening kick-off in the game and gave up possession on a fumble that the Raiders recovered.

From then until near the end of the half, all play was in the Cobra half of the field, as the Raiders marched in for 30 points.

In the second half, things turned around for awhile. The Cobras broke through early for a touchdown, and the Raiders played like they didn't care anymore.

But inside the forty yard line, with the Cobras looking like they were pushing for their second TD in the quarter, the Raiders stopped their opponents and the defense came alive to hold the Ft. Pierce team to just 12 points.

Quarterback Eric Smith completed five of nine passes for 102 yards in the game.

Willie Sneed led the team in receptions with 90 yards and two touchdowns in two receptions. One of his receptions came from a pass off the arm of Randy Rutledge. The 41 yard throw to Sneed resulted in a TD.

John Ford picked 43 yards in two receptions and Alonso

Allen gained five yards in one reception.

The team picked up 144 total yards in passing plays and 300 yards rushing.

Ray Dixon carried the ball nine times for a team leading 90 yards and scored one TD.

Rutledge carried the ball a dozen times for 58 total yards and scored two TDs.

Tim Sims carried the ball three times for 24 yards and returned two punts for 15 yards total.

Luis Gonzalez carried the ball two times for 18 yards and one TD and Juan Adair carried it twice for 19 yards.

"We looked okay the first half," said Coach Dan Brown. "But it's kinda hard to get the kids motivated. We got complacent in the second half."

He said his team will be working on their second half strategy for future games.

Brown's tactics differed from former Coach Ben McCoy, who's teams usually ran a screen to the left.

"No two coaches are the same," said Brown. "I believe in the balanced attack. I think if you limit yourself, the other team gets to know what to expect."

This week, the Raiders travel to North Shore.

"That's going to be a tough one for us," said Brown. "I think North Shore has the momentum. They beat us in the jamboree (two weeks ago). We can't take anybody lightly."

City to sponsor softball tourny

BELLE GLADE -- The autumn tournament the Belle Glade Recreation Department is sponsoring has been rescheduled for Oct. 8-10.

It was originally scheduled for Sept. 24-26.

The entry fee is $80 and must be received by the department by Sept. 21, according to Mike Underwood, the Recreation Coordinator.

All inquiries should be addressed to Underwood at the Belle Glade City Hall. The phone number is 996-0100.

RAIDER Defensive end Robert Jordan, 82, tackles a Fort Pierce Central player while Tommy Duhart, 75, comes in to assist. The Raiders won their opener 30-12.

Crusaders win opener in 2nd OT

BELLE GLADE -- The Belle Glade Christian Crusaders opened their season this year with a 28-20 victory over Westminster Academy in double overtime.

The Crusaders found themselves down 14-12 at the end of the first half.

"We really hadn't played any football up to then," said Coach James Jacks. "The first half we were sound asleep. But the guys came off the field and decided they didn't want to lose the game. They played a real good ball game the second half."

At the end of regulation time, the game was tied 20-20. The game extended into two overtime periods before the Crusaders took the ball across the goal line for the game winning points.

Westminster got on the scoreboard first when Tod Little ran the ball in from 14 yards out with 6:21 left in the first quarter.

The Crusaders hit pay dirt with about nine minutes to go in the half.

They moved the ball over goal line from the 49 yard line with five plays.

Quarterback Alex Morales, taking the snap at the 44 yard line, hit Mirto Vigore with a pass. Vigore attempted to run it in but was hit by two Westminster backs at the eleven where he fumbled the ball. Phillip Echols recovered it and ran it in for the TD.

Westminster lost a costly interception two plays later. Echols stole a Westminster pass at

Athletes of the week

Gridiron dominates first week of high school sports season

Three football players were honored as the first Athletes of the Week during the high school sports season.

Philip Echols is this week's athlete of the week from Christian Day School. The sophomore plays tailback and defensive end.

In last week's game against Westminster Academy in Fort Lauderdale, he led his team to a 28-20 victory in double overtime when he scored the winning touchdown and the two point conversion.

He also intercepted a pass and ran 25 yards to the end zone.

He scored three touchdowns in the game and led the team with 65 yards gained.

Defensively, Echols made a dozen unassisted tackles and was in on numerous assists.

Randy Rutledge, a tailback with the Glades Central Raiders, helped lead his team to a 30-12 victory over the Fort Pierce Central Cobras in the Raiders' opener.

The senior carried the ball over the goal line twice, once from two yards out and once from the 13 yard line. He also threw a 41 yard touchdown pass to Willie Sneed and rushed for 58 yards on 13 carries.

Kent Connell, a senior offensive guard and linebacker with the Glades Day Gators, helped hold a tough Pinecrest team to 100 yards in the Gators 0-28 loss in the season opener last Friday.

four yard line, where Glades Day recovered a Pinecrest fumble.

On the first play from scrimmage, Pinecrest intercepted a Glades Day pass and took over on its 77-yard line. A 25-yard touchdown pass put Pinecrest ahead 15-0 with 18 seconds remaining in the third quarter.

After the kickoff, Glades Day was again unable to move the football against Pinecrest's stubborn defense and was forced to punt.

The Pinecrest offense faltered and the Panthers were forced to punt after failing to make a first down. However, the Glades Day offense was unable to make any ground against the Panther offense and was again forced to punt.

Pinecrest defensive back Brett O'Brien returned the punt 55 yards for a touchdown to put the Panthers ahead 28-0.

After Pinecrest intercepted a Glades Day pass on the Gator 48-yard line, a 30-yard touchdown, run put the Panthers ahead 28-0 with 1:06 left in the game. The extra point was so good, and Glades Day could not manage a score in its final possession.

Turnovers hurt Gators in loss

Glades Day lost five fumbles and had two passes intercepted enroute to a 28-0 loss to Pinecrest.

"We tried to spread them (the fumbles) out," Glades Day coach Byron Walker, Jr. said humorously. "We all tried to drop some. I even tried to fumble on the sidelines a couple of times."

Walker added: "We're going to have to get our offense cranked up."

The Gators picked up a total of 73 yards rushing and had a 6 yards passing against the Panthers. Gator fullback Davy Haynes rushed for 47 yards in 11 carries, halfback Jose Perez had 14 yards in six carries and halfback Robby Carter got 17 yards in six carries for the Gators.

The Panthers made 100 yards rushing and 81 yards passing.

Defensively, linebacker Marion Tyson and defensive end Frank Thompson made seven tackles and had two assists for the Gators.

"Overall, the defense played a tremendous game," said Walker.

He pointed out that in the first four games, the Gators are playing out of the district against 2A schools. The Gators are a 1A school.

"We will improve by playing bigger schools," said Walker, adding that "by the fifth game we should be much improved."

Walker said he was disappointed that the Gators just, but wasn't "down" about it. He said it was a good game for the Gators and called it a "learning experience" for the team.

"Our goal is to learn something every week," said Walker. "I don't feel that terribly bad about it."

The Gators will travel to Ft. Myers Friday to play Pinckney Vines, who scored 49 points in their season opener last week.

But, Walker said, "We fully intend to shut them out."

"You can bet we intend to be better next week," he continued, "by the time district comes around, we'll be the best team in the district."

ECC selling orange trees

BELLE GLADE - The Exceptional Children's Center at Gove Elementary is selling young orange trees for $5 each in an effort to raise money for projects this school year.

According to Austin Raulerson, the vocational agricultural teacher at the school, the school purchased 200 trees from a nursery in Orlando.

The school is selling two types of orange trees, Valencia and Hamlin. Valencia bear fruit in April or May and Hamlin bear fruit in December or January, he said.

This is the first time the school has sold trees.

JESSE LEE, Glades Day wide receiver, can't get to the ball as an unidentified Pinecrest defensive back makes an interception.

the 44 yard line and ran it all the way in for the go ahead touchdown.

Westminster went ahead before the half ended when it moved the ball 53 yards in three plays. David Smith carried the ball in from the 15 yard line for the Westminster team.

The two point conversion by Little put Westminster ahead 14-12 at the half.

In the third quarter, the Crusaders held Westminster on four plays to take possession of the ball at their own 33 yard line.

The Crusaders moved the ball to their 44 yard line in two plays when Morales hit Robert Echols for a 36 yard pass.

The very next play, Morales threw a 20 yard TD pass to Robert Echols. The two-point conversion by Pipo Paz put CDS up 20-14.

Westminster ended the regulation time scoring with a 37 yard, 14 play scoring drive that lasted seven minutes and 53 seconds.

Tod Little rushed in from the four yard line to tie the game at 20-20.

The teams went into overtime after a Morales pass was intercepted to end the fourth quarter.

Both teams were stopped at the three yard line in the first overtime period, forcing the game into the second overtime period with the score still 20-20.

The Crusaders put the game away on a five play series that culminated in eight points.

Morales threw an incomplete pass, then Vigoa picked up seven yards on a swing play.

Paz picked up a yard up the middle and Philip Echols scored six on a three yard rush off tackle. Echols also scored the two point conversion off tackle.

The Westminster team was held and the Crusaders came home from Fort Lauderdale 28-20 victors.

The Crusaders picked up 128 yards in 31 carries and 103 yards in six completed passes.

Westminster carried the ball 50 times for 191 yards but was held to four yards in two completed passes.

Alex Morales completed six passes for 13 attempes. He also carried the ball five times for 17 yards.

The team averaged 28 1/2 yards in four punts and was penalized 15 times for 115 yards.

Robert Echols picked up 78 yards in four receptions and scored one touchdown. Mirto Vigoa received the ball twice for 25 yards.

Philip Echols carried the ball 15 times for 63 yards, two TDs and a two point conversion. He also intercepted a pass and ran it in for a touchdown.

Pipo Paz carried the ball eight times for 37 yards and James Barnwell carried it twice for four yards total. Mirto Vigoa carried it once for seven yards.

Jody Canalis picked up three unassisted tackles and 11 assists. James Barnwell made two unassisted and 12 assists. Philip Echols was third with two unassisted tackles and ten assists.

This week, the Crusaders travel to Moore Haven to play the Terriers, who are also 1-0 after beating LaBelle last Friday.

According to Jacks, the Crusaders chances against the Terriers depend on the condition of the offensive and defensive lines, which are "hunting" after the prolonged battle with Westminster last Friday afternoon.

"I'm not sure," he said. "I feel that we've got just as good a ball club as Moore Haven, so long as we not lose our heads."

The game starts at 8 p.m. in Moore Haven.

The Crusaders first home game is next Friday, September 24, at 3:30 against St. Edwards.

South Bay Growers expands size and scope with passage of years

By JEFF BROWN
SOUTH BAY - South Bay Growers, Inc. was originally started as a cooperative of three farms in the early forties.

In those days, the chief products were beans and cabbage.

Today, South Bay Growers, Inc., a fully owned subsidiary of United States Sugar, handles almost nine million cartons of vegetables per year.

The company was incorporated in July of 1947, according to Frank Teets, vice president and general manager. It was established as a cooperative. The three original members of the cooperative were Billy Rogers, John L. Evans and C.A. "Mutt" Thomas.

Harry Smith, who was involved in South Bay Distributors before it was bought and formed into South Bay Growers, served as general manager and sales manager of the new company from its inception until 1963.

Imman Weeks took over as general manager and secretary in 1965 and held that position until July 1, 1969 when Teets took over.

Teets, now a vice president with United States Sugar, has held the reins ever since.

Roth Farms and Earl Crossman became members of the Growers co-op in 1969, according to Teets, and Florida Lettuce Inc. joined South Bay Growers in 1970 after two years of experimentation with iceberg lettuce in the Glades.

Outside growers, those not belonging to or affiliated with the company, who Teets said were important in the development of South Bay Growers included Perkins Farms Inc., L.S. Lettuce and Basore Florida Inc.

When the company was bought by United States Sugar Company on November 3, 1980, all the personal farms were also bought. This followed a consolidation of all the individual farms in 1969. When Evans died that year, all the individually owned farms became Billy Rogers Farms.

Teets and Don Scruggs, Director of Marketing for South Bay Growers, each said they "feel good" about the opportunities afforded the company since the take over by USSC.

Teets said plans are being made to utilize the vast land resources of USSC to enhance the "continuity of flow" of the vegetables that derive from South Bay Growers.

The "continuity of product" refers to the company's ability to provide vegetables continuously, even after harsh weather, such as the freezes this past December.

Prior to the merger with USSC, South Bay

Growers' "continuity of flow" was insured by three farms located in three different areas. The largest farm, a 5,700 acre tract, is located 18 and a half miles south of South Bay on SR 27. Another farm is located about 25 miles west of South Bay and a third is about 40 miles east of the home office.

Because of the local weather trends in South Florida, severe weather, such as heat, floods or frost, may afflict one area, but leave the other two farms unaffected, according to Scruggs.

This enables the company to insure a continual supply of its products.

"In the agricultural business, continuity of product is of the utmost importance," said Scruggs. "If you have good continuity, then the companies in the market will come to you."

USSC's vast land resources can only help improve that continuity, according to Teets and Scruggs. Not much has been done to date to convert USSC sugar cane fields to vegetables, but that is due to the time needed to make the conversion, according to Teets.

Another advantage the USSC merger has for South Bay Growers' operation is the land it will provide to make crop rotation possible. If one crop is grown on a tract of land for several consecutive years, it creates a toxic affect in the soil, especially with lettuce.

When South Bay Growers originally started business, it dealt mostly in green beans and cabbage. Through the years, green beans and cabbage decreased in their importance until today, green beans are not grown on South Bay Growers farms and cabbage is a minor crop in comparison to the leafy vegetables such as lettuce and celery.

Leafy vegetables, radishes, peppers, onions and sweet corn

have picked up the slack in recent years.

South Bay Growers was driven out of the bean market with the emergence of frozen beans, according to Teets, and cabbage was reduced in importance because other areas, primarily Texas, could grow cabbage and carrots but little else, while the Glades had alternatives to fall back on.

In 1968, Harold Gatzke and his sons, Ken and Don, joined with South Bay Growers in an experiment with iceberg lettuce production in the Glades. By 1970 the venture had become successful enough for Gatzke to form Florida Lettuce, Inc.

In the first year of lettuce production, South Bay Growers handled 205,000 cartons of iceberg lettuce. Last year, they handled three million cartons, making it the company's leading volume product.

Other types of lettuce, such as Romaine, are also grown by the company.

Celery is the company's second biggest product followed by sweet corn.

Today, SBG uses cabbage as a mixer item, according to Teets. A mixer is an order from a grocer or consumer for a truck load of several different items.

Last year, the company handled 8.7 million total cartons of vegetables.

Each vegetable has its own characteristics and responds to weather and climate differently. Lettuce is very tolerant to cold weather, but vulnerable to heat and rain, whereas others are more vulnerable to cold weather but tolerant to high temperatures and wet weather.

SBG farms are worked in some form or another almost all year long. Planting begins in August, and the last harvests are completed in mid June.

In the off-season,

fields can be leveled and ditches dug.

The fields are leveled through a laser plane process.

The process, developed to aid in the irrigation of deserts, can level a 40 acre block to within one fiftieth of an inch.

A tractor drags the laser leveling unit around the fields. A bottomless scraper is automatically adjusted to the appropriate level for the dipe and rises in the surface.

Leveling is important because of the irrigation system used by South Bay Growers. Instead of surface irrigation, the company depends on moisture from a water table.

If the land were not level, the lower levels would get too much water in wet years and nothing would grow in them.

Water would fail to reach higher levels in the dry years and nothing would grow on those spots.

The 40 acre blocks are divided by canals. Under normal circumstances, the lands closer to the canals would receive more water than those further away. But SBG solves that problem by a series of tunnels, according to Scruggs.

Prior to planting, irrigation tunnels are created in the fields.

About every 10 feet apart, these tunnels lie about 24 inches underground and insure a uniform water table.

They are created by dragging a bullet shaped object through the soil with a tractor. If no heavy equipment runs over the field, those tunnels will last for the season, said Scruggs.

South Bay Growers also produces its own cartons for shipping celery.

These cartons, made of polyethylene boards, are lighter than the traditional cardboard cartons, especially when wet. According to Teets, this is an important factor in the shipping of celery, because, unlike other vegetables, loads are limited by weight, not volume.

SBG, which began production of the plastic boards in 1974, sells some of the product to the auto industry, and the United States Postal Service has expressed an interest in it.

One year later, with the initiation of Tom Basore, SBG opened a unit which prepares processed onions and lettuce for fast food chains and restaurants. The lettuce and onions which end up in the processing procedure are taken from the ends of the fields. Those vegetables grow to being smaller than those in the middle of the fields, and are therefore unmarketable, according to Teets and Scruggs. To make a profit and prevent the otherwise good vegetables from going to waste, the company developed the salad lettuce and onion division.

The vegetables grow smaller on the ends of the fields because the fields are usually graded upward toward the road, so less water reaches them.

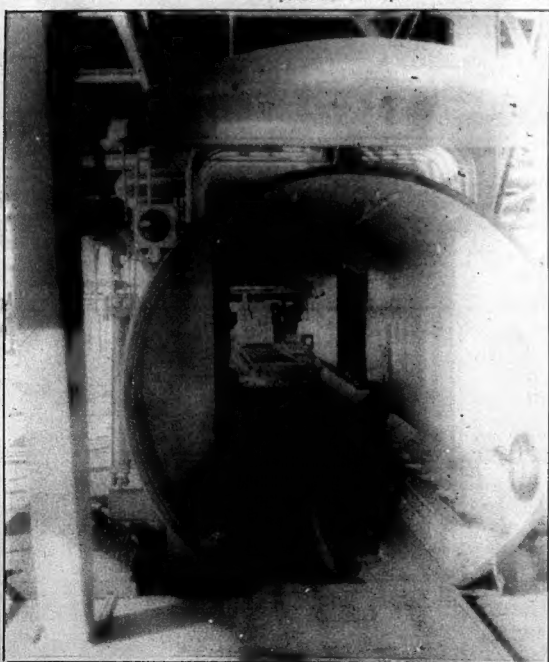

About three years ago, SBG began production of bell peppers on the Billy Rogers Farms. Last year, SBG handled about half a million cartons of bell peppers.

With the help of USSC, South Bay Growers should be expanding in the future, according to Teets.

"We'll be moving in to other areas," said Teets.

On the first play from scrimmage, Pinecrest intercepted a Glades Day pass and took over on its 27-yard line. A 28-yard touchdown pass put Pinecrest ahead 15-0 with 18 seconds remaining in the third quarter.

After the kickoff, Glades Day was again unable to move the football against Pinecrest's stubborn defense and was forced to punt.

Pinecrest defensive back Brett O'Brien returned the punt 55 yards to a touchdown to put the Panthers ahead 22-0.

After Pinecrest intercepted a Glades Day pass on the Gator 45-yard line, a 30-yard touchdown run put the Panthers ahead 28-0 with 1:08 left in the game. The extra point was no good, and Glades Day could not manage a score in its final possession.

JESSE LEE, Glades Day wide receiver can't get to the ball as an unidentified Pinecrest defensive back makes an interception.

Pinecrest intercepted two Glades Day passes enroute to a 28-0 win.

Turnovers hurt Gators in loss

Glades Day lost five fumbles and had two passes intercepted enroute to a 28-0 loss to Pinecrest.

"We tried to spread them (the fumbles) out," Glades Day coach Byron Walker, Jr. said humorously. "We all tried to drop some. I even tried to fumble on the sidelines a couple of times."

Walker added: "We're going to have to get our offense cranked up."

The Gators picked up a total of 72 yards rushing and had a 6 yards passing against the Panthers. Gator fullback Davy Haynes rushed for 47 yards in 11 carries, halfback Jose Perez had 14 yards in six carries and halfback Robby Carter got 17 yards in six carries for the Gators.

The Panthers made 100 yards rushing and 81 yards passing.

Defensively, linebacker Marlon Tyson and defensive end Frank Thompson made seven tackles and had two assists for the Gators.

Overall, the defense played a tremendous game, said Walker.

He pointed out that in the first four games, the Gators are playing out of the district against 2A schools. The Gators are a 1A school.

The Gators will travel to Ft. Myers Friday to play Bishop Verot, who scored 49 points in their season opener last week.

But, Walker said, "We fully intend to shut them out."

"You can bet we intend to be better next week," he continued, "by the time district comes around, we'll be the best team in the district."

the 44 yard line and ran it all the way in for the go ahead touchdown.

Westminster went ahead before the half ended when it moved the ball 53 yards in three plays. David Smith carried the ball in from the 15 yard line for the Westminster team.

The two point conversion by Little put Westminster ahead 14-12 at the half.

In the third quarter, the Crusaders held Westminster on four plays to take possession of the ball at their own 33 yard line.

The Crusaders moved the ball to their 44 yard line in two plays when Morales hit Robert Echols for a 36 yard pass.

The very next play, Morales threw a 20 yard TD pass to Robert Echols. The two point conversion by Pipo Paez put CDS up 20-14.

Westminster ended the regulation time scoring with a 37 yard, 14 play scoring drive that lasted seven minutes and 53 seconds.

Tod Little rushed in from the four yard line to tie the game at 20-20.

The teams went into overtime after a Morales pass was intercepted in eight points.

Both teams were stopped at the three yard line in the first overtime period, forcing the game into the second overtime period with the score still 20-20.

The Crusaders put the game away on a five play drive that culminated in eight points.

Both teams were stopped at the three yard line in the first overtime period, forcing the game into the second overtime period with the score still 20-20.

The Crusaders picked up 128 yards in 31 carries and 103 yards in six completed passes.

Westminster carried the ball 50 times for 191 yards but was held to four yards in two completed passes.

Alex Morales completed six passes for 13 attempts. He also carried the ball five times for 17 yards.

The team averaged 26 1/2 yards in four punts and was penalized 15 times for 115 yards.

Robert Echols picked up 78 yards in four receptions and scored one touchdown. Mirto Vigora received the ball twice for 25 yards.

Philip Echols carried the ball 15 times for 63 yards, two TDs and a two point conversion. He also intercepted a pass and ran it in for a touchdown.

Pipo Paez carried the ball eight times for 37 yards and James Barnwell carried it twice for four yards total. Mirto Vigora carried it once for seven yards.

Jody Canalis picked up three unassisted tackles and 11 assists. James Barnwell made two unassisted and 12 assists. Philip Echols was third with two unassisted tackles and ten assists.

This week, the Crusaders travel to Moore Haven to play the Terriers, who are 1-0 after beating LaBelle last Friday.

According to Jacks, the Crusaders chances against the Terriers depend on the condition of the offensive and defensive lines, which are "hurting" after the prolonged battle with Westminster last Friday afternoon.

"I'm not sure," he said. "I feel that we've got just as good a ball club as Moore Haven, so long as we not lose our heads."

The game starts at 8 p.m. in Moore Haven. The Crusaders first home game is next Friday, September 24, at 3:30 against St. Edwards.

South Bay Growers expands size and scope with passage of years

By Jeff Brown
SOUTH BAY - South Bay Growers, Inc., was originally started as a cooperative of three farms in the early 1940s.

In those days, the chief products were beans and cabbage.

Today, South Bay Growers, Inc., a fully owned subsidiary of United States Sugar, handles almost nine million cartons of vegetables per year.

The company was incorporated in July of 1947, according to Frank Teets, vice president and general manager. It was established as a cooperative. The three original members of the cooperative were Billy Rogers, John L. Evans and C.A. "Mutt" Thomas.

Harry Smith, who was involved in South Bay Distributors before it was bought and formed into South Bay Growers, served as general manager and sales manager of the new company from its inception until 1953.

Inman Weeks took over as general manager and secretary in 1953 and held that position until July 1, 1969, when Teets took over.

Teets, now a vice president with United States Sugar, has held the reins ever since.

Roth Farms and Earl Crossman became members of the Growers co-op in 1969, according to Teets, and Florida Lettuce Inc. joined South Bay Growers in 1970 after two years of experimentation with iceberg lettuce in the Glades.

Outside growers those not belonging to or affiliated with the company, who Teets said were important in the development of South Bay Growers included Perkins Farms Inc., L-8 Lettuce and Basore Florida Inc.

When the company was bought by United States Sugar Company on November 3, 1980 all the personal farms were also bought. This followed a consolidation of all the individual farms in 1959. When Evans died that year, all the individual ly owned farms became Billy Rogers Farms.

Teets and Don Scruggs, Director of Marketing for South Bay Growers, each said they "feel good" about the opportunities afforded the company since the take over by USSC.

They said plans are being made to utilize the vast land resources of USSC to enhance the "continuity of flow" of the vegetables that derive from South Bay Growers.

The "continuity of product" refers to the company's ability to provide vegetables continuously, even after harsh weather, such as the freezes this past December.

Prior to the merger with USSC, South Bay

Growers' continuity of flow was insured by three farms located in three different areas. The largest farm, a 1,700-acre tract is located 18 and a half miles south of South Bay on SR 27.

Another farm is located about 25 miles west of South Bay and a third is about 40 miles east of the home offices.

Because of the local weather trends in South Florida, severe weather, such as heat floods or frost, may affect one area, but leave the other two farms unaffected, according to Scruggs.

This enables the company to insure a continual supply of its products.

In the agricultural business, continuity of product is of the utmost importance, said Scruggs. "If you have good continuity, then the market will come to you."

USSC's vast land resources can only help improve that continuity, according to Teets and Scruggs. Not much has been done to date to convert USSC sugar cane fields to vegetables, but that is due to the time needed to make the conversion, according to Teets.

Another advantage the USSC merger has for South Bay Growers' operation is the land it will provide to make crop rotation possible. If one crop is grown on a tract of land for several consecutive years, it creates a toxic affect in the soil, especially with lettuce.

When South Bay Growers originally started business, it dealt mostly in green beans and cabbage. Through the years, green beans and cabbage decreased in their importance until today, green beans are not grown on South Bay Growers farms and cabbage is a minor crop in comparison to the leafy vegetables such as lettuce and celery.

Leafy vegetables, radishes, peppers, onions and sweet corn

have picked up the slack in recent years.

South Bay Growers was driven out of the bean market with the emergence of frozen beans, according to Teets, and cabbage was reduced in importance because other areas, primarily Texas, could grow cabbage and carrots but little else, while the Glades had alternatives to fall back on.

In 1968, Harold Gatzke and his sons, Ken and Don, joined with South Bay Growers in an experiment with iceberg lettuce production in the Glades. By 1970 the venture had become successful enough for Gatzke to form Florida Lettuce, Inc.

In the first year of lettuce production, South Bay Growers handled 205,000 cartons of iceberg lettuce. Last year, they handled three million cartons, making it the company's leading volume product.

Other types of lettuce, such as Romaine, are also grown by the company.

Celery is the company's second biggest product followed by sweet corn.

Today, SBG uses cabbage as a mixer item, according to Teets. A mixer is an order from a grocer or consumer for a truck load of several different items.

Last year, the company handled 8.7 million total cartons of vegetables.

Each vegetable has its own characteristics and responds to weather and climate differently. Lettuce is very tolerant to cold weather, but vulnerable to heat and rain, whereas others are more vulnerable to cold weather but tolerant to high temperatures and wet weather.

SBG farms are worked in some form or another almost all year long. Planting begins in August, and the last harvests are completed in mid June.

In the off-season,

fields can be leveled and ditches dug.

The fields are leveled through a laser plane process.

The process, developed to aid in the irrigation of deserts, can level a 40 acre block to within one-fiftieth of an inch.

A tractor drags the laser leveling unit around the fields. A bottomless scraper is automatically adjusted to the appropriate level for dips and rises in the surface.

Leveling is important because of the irrigation system used by South Bay Growers. Instead of surface irrigation, the company depends on moisture from a water table.

If the land were not level, the lower levels would get too much water in wet years and nothing would grow in them.

Water would fail to reach higher levels in the dry years and nothing would grow on those spots.

The 40 acre blocks are divided by canals. Under normal circumstances, the lands closer to the canals would receive more water than those further away. But SBG solves that problem by a series of tunnels, according to Scruggs.

Prior to planting, irrigation tunnels are created in the fields.

About every 10 feet apart, these tunnels lie about 24 inches underground and insure a uniform water table.

They are created by dragging a bullet shaped object through the soil with a tractor. If no heavy rain runs over the field, those tunnels will last for the season, said Scruggs.

South Bay Growers also produces its own cartons for shipping celery.

These cartons, made of polyethylene boards, are lighter than the long, traditional cardboard cartons, especially when wet. According to Teets, this is an important factor in the shipping of celery, because, unlike other vegetables, loads are limited by weight, not volume.

SBG, which began production of the plastic boards in 1974, sells some of the product to the auto industry, and the United States Postal Service has expressed an interest in it.

One year later, with the initiation of Tom Basore, SBG opened a unit which prepares processed onions and lettuce for fast food chains and restaurants. The lettuce and onions which end up in the processing procedure are taken from the ends of the fields. Those vegetables grow to be smaller than those in the middle of the fields, and are therefore unmarketable, according to Teets and Scruggs.

To make a profit and prevent the otherwise good vegetables from going to waste, the company developed the salad lettuce and onion division.

The vegetables grow smaller on the ends of the fields because the fields are usually graded upward toward the road, so less water reaches them.

About three years ago, SBG began production of bell pepper on the Billy Rogers Farms. Last year, SBG handled about half a million cartons of bell peppers.

With the help of USSC, South Bay Growers should be expanding in the future, according to Teets.

"We'll be moving in to other areas," said Teets.

Rex makes 4th catch

With his now dog, Rex, Deputy Tommy Brooks recently made his fourth "catch" of a suspect sought by local law enforcement officers.

Suffering from a broken leg, McCas, 27, of Henderson Quarters, Lake Harbor, was charged with two counts of aggravated assault, fleeing and attempting to elude a police officer, leaving the scene of an accident, and driving while intoxicated following the incident. The assault charges carry a maximum of five years in jail each.

According to Brooks, McCas threatened his girlfriend, Annette Ben, with a knife, but was arrested off by witnesses.

He attempted to flee in his automobile and allegedly tried to run down Inna Migott, Deputy Bill Archers spotted McCas fleeing and gave chase. The high speed pursuit paralleled the Miami Canal and ended with McCas losing control of his vehicle and going into the canal.

Brooks and his dog and a police helicopter were called in to search for McCas. After a chase of several hundred yards, McCas was removed to avoid dog bite.

He was placed in Palm Beach County Jail under $1,000 bond.

God's answer to the dead life

By David Evans, Minister

"You're a dead man! You're nothing!" These words came from the mouth of a cynical young man in a play on a TV program. The Apostle Paul tells the Ephesians that there was a time when they were dead in their sins. There is a similarity in the meaning of the two references. The first was referring to someone who was cut off from the group, and the second refers to being cut off from God. Being dead in sin means spiritual death because there is no communication or contact with God. Paul says this is true because the Ephesians followed the prince of the power of the air. The New English Bible refers to the commander of the spiritual powers of the air.

Today the personification of evil or the making of a person evil is alien to modern man, but if we eliminate this from our thinking then we are robbed of evil's living terror.

When we decide to do this we begin deprogramming God. We want to refer to evil as psychological complexes, sociological determinants, or biological urges. We then do not need a personal God but only educational reforms, sociological progress, and psychiatric therapies.

Paul points out further that the Ephesians lived according to their own desires. He is talking about conduct away by irrational impulses and lacking any governing principle.

Today we want to be free and yet the way to end in chains is to obey the promptings of our own instincts and notions. Without standards and the governing principle of God we will truly end in the bondage of sin and possibly in actual imprisonment.

God's answer to man's action and our action is wrath. This is the attitude of God when we rebel and violate the divine demand for holiness. Wrath is not the opposite of love but implies love. Only wrath can really show love. It means God cares enough for us to punish.

Someone has said "Only a responsible being created in the image of God could possibly be the subject of wrath. If there is no wrath there is no concern and no love."

God declared war on the environment of man. The Gospel is the solution to man's problems and to our problems. Many of us who have heard the Gospel have been led astray.

Pay phones identified

You're standing near a pay phone in an unfamiliar section of town and find yourself witnessing a robbery. You run to the phone to call the Police but realize you don't know the street address or even the street name.

"There's no reason to panic," says Southern Bell's 66,000 pay phones display a card identifying its location. Even if you're in a Florida city not served by Southern Bell, the pay phone's location will be identified."

In 1978, the Florida Public Service Commission determined that all 19 telephone companies in the state should provide location identification at each pay phone.

In addition to reporting an emergency, there are other situations when knowing the location of a pay phone is helpful. White explained, "If you're in an unfamiliar city and need a taxi cab or someone else to pick you up it will be easier for them to locate you. Also, this practice helps Southern Bell get your out-of-order pay stations back into service more quickly because customers calling up to report the phone will be able to specifically identify its location."
